JOSEF HOFMANN, PIANIST. pear in Slater Memorial Hall March The World's Greatest Pianist Will Ap-

The New York Sun, whose judgment all matters musical is considered periative, is most lavish in its praise Hofmann's playing, and we present rewith, in full, a criticism from the in of a recent concert given by Hofman in New York:

"Josef Hofmann, the distinguished anist, gave his third recital of the great season at Carnegie hall yestersy afternoon. His programme was of titanic proportions. It read us: Prelude and fugue, by Mendalicalin: Yeschio Menuetto, Sgambati; mata, opus 57, commonly called Appassionata, Beethoven; barcarole, Capror nocturne, value in A fiat major, and B minor and intermezzi in A sior and B minor, Brakms, and Studes Symphoniques, Schumann.

"Here is a list of compositions flated a search the marrow of a pianist's responsible. The new tariff increased receipts from that source about $800.-000 a month. The increase of the composible for an increase of $356,000 in February alone. Taxes on oleamargarine are falling off. The taxes on whiskey and other spirits for February alone this year were $11,000,000.

The corporation tax receipts are beginning to come in. A little more than $350,000 has been received. Returns will be complete on June 1, and by July 1 treasury officials expect to have $25,000,000 collected from that source.

His mastery of the art of ging music on his chosen instrumt and of imparting to the song a truckous wealth of tone color are the means by which he presents to and deep conceptions of the spiral side of music. Naturally his inspotation of Hecthoven gives him upic scope for the revelation of his publishes.

But without doubt his hearers yesgray found something even more swing in his Chopin readings. The scravole is one of the most familiar of the compositions of the Polish manor, and it is played extremely well by many planists, but we doubt whether my local audience ever heard it percorned with more delicacy of taste han that which Mr. Hofmann brought of its interpretation yesterday afterseen.

"Again, his reading of the C minor octurne reached an astonishing level plano virtuosity as well as of interpretative eloquence. The manner which he built up the stupendous limax in the middle passage with the stave commentaries was something fifnin the grasp only of a supreme construction of the keyboard. His teacher, Rubinstein, might have wept for by to hear such breadth and depth of one applied to such splendid musical urpose.

These readings were matched only that of the Schumann number, the Mr. Hofmann played with noble sption and great glory of tone, re were moments in it so beautiful to be altogether ravishing, but its marit was its completely rounded matry as a reading and its inticrealization of the real spirit of the realization of the real spirit of the mann's imagination, such a piano recital is indeed an image exhibition of the art of the pretative musician. Such interstion is creative. It makes the is live and breathe. It gives us that mighty composers have, of it ous together with the precious of the living personality. NCREASED TAXES ON

TOBACCO AND BEER

Washington, March 20.—The government receipts from internal revenue are at their high water mark. During the first eight months of the present fiscal year $199,337,080 was collected, an increase of more than $22,000,000 for the same period last year. Receipts for February alone were $1,692,000 greater than for February, 1910.

Higher taxes on tobacco are largely responsible. The new tariff increased receipts from that source about $800.—000 a month. The increase in the consumption of beer was responsible for an increase of $366,000 in February alone. Taxes on oleamargarine are tonight Senator-elect Kern of Indiana said:

"The future of W. J. Bryan is secure. Whether he shall ever again be called on to lead the democratic hosts is a question of little moment to him; for, by reason of his achievements in behalf of the people, he has so endeared himself to the great rank and file of the American democracy that wherever Bryan sits in the democratic councils of the future, there he will be at the head.

"Men may ever find favor who work at politics as a trade, among those who sit in the seats of the mighty, but Bryan's strength will be in the fact that in millions of American homes and by millions of true and earnest men and women, by whose endeavors this country has been made great, he will always be regarded as champion and friend, the fearless foe of wrong and oppression everywhere."
